

HPQ Select Instructions

The HPQ Select self-report survey is web-based and takes approximately 15 minutes for an employee to complete. As an employer, you will not have access to the confidential individual responses, and a minimum of 500 completed surveys is required. Employers that can't gather 500 surveys should consider the IBI Health & Productivity Snapshot instead.

Similar to an employee satisfaction, engagement or health risk survey, the HPQ Select poses core health and lost time questions. The survey can be merged into a currently administered health risk assessment or used as a standalone lost-productivity assessment. IBI then uses proprietary algorithms to analyze responses and generate an aggregate, business-focused report on the health and productivity of a company's workforce.
